

SEVERE STORM, PHILA. - CAMDEN; DAMAGE, $2,000,000

Residents Here Delayed Last Night Returning
Home

TRAIN SERVICE HALTED

Several Persons Injured, Trees Felled; and Other Damage

Many Bristol residents were caught in the storm in Philadelphia last night.
Train service to Bristol was delayed several hours and those who motored were also late in returning to their homes here.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—Philadelphia and Camden and surrounding communities today began repairing the havoc wrought by a terrific electrical and rain storm borne on the wings of a 100-mile-an-hour gale which whipped through eastern Pennsylvania and adjacent New Jersey yesterday afternoon, killing five persons and leaving almost $2,000,000 damage in its wake. The damage in Camden County alone will exceed $1,000,000, authorities there reported today after a survey of the devastation.

Loss in the Philadelphia district and in Delaware and Montgomery counties was expected to reach a low figure.

Numerous other persons were injured by falling debris, flying wreckage and automobile crashes.

Lightning struck scores of buildings and trees. The wind swept away portions of other structures and uprooted trees in every section of the district.
Electric signs were carried away in great numbers.

At the height of the gale a hail storm caused additional damage. Store display windows crumpled up like tissue paper against the weight of the one-inch hail. Valuable displays were damaged. Lightning struck historic city hall tower, breaking every window, short-circuiting electric and telephone wires and cutting off elevator service.

Church steeples fell in the rain-loaded wind. Trolley cars and automobiles were caught in the full fury of the gale with falling trees blocking their way. There was no immediate escape for the frightened passengers.

Mrs. Caroline V. Gross, 54, was the first victim of the storm. She was struck by lightning while mopping up water near a window-sill and died later in a hospital.

Joseph Tsanatter, 45, was killed when the music pavilion at Lemon Hill, Fairmount Park, where he sought refuge, collapsed.

Two others were seriously injured.

Mrs. Estelle Kerney, negro, of Camden, died of fright while running home from a grocery store during the height of the storm.

Levi Beller, 55, a retired farmer of Elverson, Chester County, was fatally injured when a truck driven by Edward C. Bradley, of Downingtown, skidded and crashed into Beller's automobile during the downpour. His daughter, Sadie Beller, 17, was seriously injured.

Lawrence Rothenberger, 39, a farmer of Worcester, near Norristown, was electrocuted in the cellar of his home when he attempted to turn off the electric power during the lightning storm.

The storm struck with such suddenness and force it left Philadelphia and adjacent sections of New Jersey stunned.

Communication lines were down for several hours after the storm and some communities lacked full service at an early hour today. Traffic was delayed more than two hours on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Philadelphia and Paoli.

Officials of the Pennsylvania and Reading lines said damage will aggregate thousands of dollars.

More than ten thousand calls for assistance and repairs were received at the offices of the local electric companies.

OPEN MONDAY NIGHT

Great A. & P. Tea Co. announces that its local stores will be open late Monday night, but closed Memorial Day.

BERLIN.—(INS)—German beer is to be taxed according to the type of brew under provisions of a recent decree authorizing a higher tax rate on strong beer than that levied on light beer. Tax rates on beer in Germany according to the new decree call for a levy of 3.75 marks on each hectoliter (about 26 gallons) of light beer, 4.50 marks per hectoliter on lager beer, 6.00 marks per hectoliter on full beer and 9.00 marks per hectoliter on strong beer.

EVERETT, Mass.—(INS)—Rats so big and so bold they "hook" ride on the running boards of automobiles, and make the alley cats creep cautiously out fences to get across dumps, are overrunning the dumpland on the Everett-Chelsea line, according to Alderman George F. Pierce, who asked action from the board of health to exterminate the pests. The board replied by asking for an appropriation.

33 PERSONS INDICTED

Philadelphia, May 25.—Thirty-three persons, the smallest number since the national prohibition law went into effect, 13 years ago, today were under indictment by the March Federal Grand Jury for liquor law violation.
The jury also returned indictments against eleven men and three women on counterfeiting offenses; against ten men on White Slave charges and six on postal and stolen automobile charges, and then recessed until June.
Included among those indicted on liquor law charges was Alex Maleski, alias Alexander Maliszewski, of Bucks County.

COMBAT ERIE MILK WAR

Edinboro, May 25.—Police and county authorities today were preparing to combat new threats of violence as the Erie county milk war gained ground on new fronts.

Harvey Spath, owner of the Erie milk plant, has requested state police protection. Milk destined for his consumption was dumped yesterday near here when 40 men stopped a truck and poured 200 gallons of milk into ditches.
Spath blamed the attack on his refusal to follow the recent retail price advances from 6 to 8 cents a quart.

URGE WOODIN REMOVAL

Washington, D. C., May 25.—A new series of sensational revelations of methods used by the House of Morgan in offering tempting securities at sub-market prices to prominent public officials, including one former president of the United States, was anticipated today at the Senate inquiry into the financial operations of the great international banking firm.

Evidence has been secured by the investigating committee showing the Morgan firm offered one cut rate security issue to former President Calvin Coolidge, just after he left the White House. The International News Service was not informed whether the late Mr. Coolidge took advantage of the offer.

Insistent demands for the removal of Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, and the re-call of Norman H. Davis, special Roosevelt envoy to Europe, swept progressive circles in the wake of earlier developments of the Morgan practices to scatter lavish loans and security issues at cut prices among government officials.

Woodin and Davis were singled out for attack among hundreds of "favored clients" of the great firm, because of their official positions. Woodin was given Morgan's stock at cut-rate prices while Davis was given a huge loan which remained unpaid.

SAMUEL VAUCLAIN TO SPEAK AT DOYLESTOWN

At Commemoration Exercises of Death of Dr. Krauskopf

AT THE FARM SCHOOL

FARM SCHOOL, May 25.—Samuel M.
Vauclain, chairman of the board of directors of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, will be the guest speaker at National Farm School, Sunday, June 4, when the annual Founders Day exercises, commemorating the tenth anniversary of the death of the school founder, Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, will be observed.

There will be a program scheduled from 1.30 p. m. until 3.30, which will include a band concert by the National Farm School Band, under the direction of Lieut. Joseph Frankel; and invocation by Rabbi Fisher, of Atlantic City; a greeting by Herbert D. All-man, of Philadelphia, president of the school, who will also introduce the guest speaker.

Mr. Vauclain, in recent years, has been very much interested in the welfare of young boys and girls, and his message will be especially inspiring to the young people.

Following the stated program there will be a tree dedication and closing prayer by Rabbi Julian B. Feibleman, of the Congregation Keneseth Israel, Philadelphia. From 3.30 until 4.30 p.
m. there will be organized tours of inspection over the school grounds which will prove interesting to all visitors.

The Sunday School from Keneseth Israel, Philadelphia, a member of the Junior Congregation of the synagogs of Philadelphia and nearby cities, will take advantage of the day to hold picnics on the spacious school grounds. Entertainment will be provided for the afternoon. James Bluet, a prominent young artist, will entertain by making quick portrait sketches. There will be auto-giro flights for those inclined to take to the air.

The committee in charge of the exercises for the day is composed of the following: Drue N. Allman, Rev. Julian B. Feibleman, Horace Fleisher, Stanley H. Hinkle, Louis A. Hirsch, Maurice Jacobs, Mrs. Joseph Krauskopf, Judge Rosen and Edward H. Silberman, chairman.

Nipponese Envoy Welcomed

En route to the World Economic Conference in London, Viscount Kikufiro Ishii, who leads Japan's delegation, is welcomed at Washington, D. C., by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, when he arrived to have a preliminary talk with President Roosevelt. At right is Captain Walter Vernou, naval aide to the President.

ADOPT SIMPLER SYSTEM FOR HIGHWAY SIGNS

Use Symbols, and Lettering is Brief; Discerned at Glance

SIGNS TO BE SQUARE

HARRISBURG, May 25.—The Pennsylvania Department of Highways has adopted a new standard of signs to provide warnings and information on State highways in this Commonwealth, Secretary Sam Lewis announced today. Information is embossed in black on a white background. Symbols are employed to denote most conditions requiring caution. Any lettering is of the utmost brevity and simplicity. The new signs will be placed in position as rapidly as possible.

The most important departure of the new standard from State highway signs previously used in Pennsylvania is the adoption of symbols. These symbols have been developed after extensive experiments conducted during the past year on Pennsylvania highways.

The chief purpose of the symbol sign, Secretary Lewis said, is to give the motorist at a single glance the information necessary for his guide-ance in the situation presented. The symbols adopted are so plain they can be readily understood by the most illiterate individual or by those whose vision may be defective or obscured that they could not readily decipher lettered information.

All of the signs will be placed in square position, the diamond shape formerly used for certain cautionary signs have been entirely abandoned because of the hazard presented by the projecting points.

Exhaustive tests conducted by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways in co-operation with several neighboring states have established that the greatest legibility of highway signs is attained by placing black symbols or lettering on a white background. It is for that reason this standard has been adopted for Pennsylvania, Secretary Lewis said. In this State, yellow and brown are predominating colors in the landscape along highways throughout at least half the year.

Most color combinations, even including the yellow and black sign which has been widely accepted, were found to have much lower visibility under practical conditions in Pennsylvania, and were found to lose legibility rapidly as they became dirty or weathered.

New directional signs are now in process of development by the Department after much experimentation.
These signs will indicate simply and effectively places, and the distance in miles to those places, on the highway being traveled.

VISIT CAMP MEADE

A visit was paid by Mr. and Mrs.
Ralph Piazza, 912 Spring street, to their son, Anthony Piazza, at Camp Meade, Md., yesterday. The Bristol couple found the young men from this vicinity in excellent spirits and very happy with their program of work and entertainment features. The local group in the reformation corps stated they are most content with the activities, and have splendid accommodations; and asked that their best regards be given to relatives and friends here.

BREAKS ARM

Jack Frazer, 527 Locust street, had the misfortune of breaking his arm, Friday while playing ball.

TWO RANGE LIGHTS ARE DESTROYED ON ISLAND

One is Burned Down and Another Battered to Pieces

SAFEGUARDED SHIPPING

Two government range lights at the head of Burlington Island were totally wrecked Tuesday night. The lights were discovered to be out of commission yesterday and were so reported to the proper authorities by Harbor Master Edward Dougherty.

There were two lights at the head of the "island." The lower part of the equipment is constructed of wood and houses the apparatus which operates the "blinker" which warns shipping of shallow water and otherwise guides them through the channel.

The frame housing of one of the lights was burned entirely away while the light on the other one was so battered and damaged that it is useless.

This is a very serious offense and the government is making every effort to catch the offender.

Bus and Truck Crash At Bristol Pike and Bridge Road

One of the buses of the Delaware River Coach Company, and a truck of the National Petroleum Company collided yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Bristol Pike and the approach to the Burlington-Bristol bridge.

William Coates, driver of the bus, attempted to make the turn from the Pike when it is believed the wheels of the bus locked. The truck was driven by Girtins Rosboro, 1244 S. Patent street, Philadelphia.

Those injured were: William Coates, 25, of West Bristol, driver of the bus; Katherine Davis, 15, and Marion Kramer, 15, both of Croydon, passengers in the bus. The truck driver, escaped with slight injuries.

Boys Eligible for Camps Must Report On Monday

All boys eligible for the reformation camps are requested to report to sign applications on Monday morning at nine o'clock, at the Municipal Building to Miss Nora Jones.

The boys must be accompanied by one parent and must either be on the relief or unemployed.

HE DRAGS THEM IN

(By "The Stroller")

Barbering like other forms of business is feeling the depression and particularly is this true of hair cutting.

Those of the male sex who heretofore had their hair cut at period of about every two weeks, are now stretching the time, so as to save on hair cutting at the end of the year.

This has meant a falling off in the receipts of the barber's till and the tonsorialists certainly feel the depression.

A certain well known barber about town has adopted the habit of standing outside of the place where he is employed and adopting the well known South street method, drag them in.
He was seen doing the trick one day recently and given the laugh.

Farewell Party Is Given In Honor of Miss Rotunno

A farewell party was tendered Miss Margaret Rotunno, yesterday, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Rotunno, Lincoln avenue. Miss Rotunno left in the evening for Los Angeles, Cal., to make her home with relatives.

The decorative scheme was yellow and pink.

A supper was served and dancing enjoyed. Participants included: the Misses Viola, Antoinette and Margaret Rotunno, Mr. and Mrs. Rotunno, Joseph and Mario Lanza, the Misses Eva and Elizabeth Grisi, Barney Longhitano, James D'Ambrosia, Eugene and James Rotunno, and Miss Eda Di Ren-zo, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Patsy Maggi and daughter, Mrs. Theresa Vinci and son Louis, and Mrs. Emma Luisi, Trenton, N. J.

"Men Must Fight" Is A Most Vivid Film Drama

A film drama that entertains and at the same time stimulates feeling and thought—that is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Men Must Fight," which opens tonight at the Grand Theatre.
It is one of the most unusual pictures the screen has seen for it depicts the country on the verge of a war in 1940.
The settings, the gowns, the sentiment are those of future years.

From the standpoint of acting and direction the picture is exceptional.
Few screen plays can boast a cast of such varied talents as that presented by Diana Wynward, the English actress who scored in "Rasputin and the Empress" and "Cavalcade," the veteran character star, Lewis Stone; Phillips Holmes of "American Tragedy"; fame, May Robson, Ruth Selwyn, Robert Young, Robert Greig, Hedda Hopper, Donald Dillaway, Mary Carlisle and Luis Alberni, all of whom excel in roles which afford leeway for dramatic fireworks.

Boys' Week Prizes To Be Awarded At Grand Theatre

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of various events held in connection with Boys' Week, at the Grand Theatre, Saturday, May 27th, at the matinee which starts at 2.30.

Dr. J. Fred Wagner, president of council, and a well known Rotarian, will present the cups, medals, etc., to the winners.

Dance To Be Staged By Guild of St. Ann's Church

Monday night a dance will be given in St. Ann's auditorium under the direction of St. Ann's Guild. The proceeds will be for the benefit of St.
Ann's Church.

The music will be furnished by Tosti's Harmony Kings and a pleasant evening is assured all who attend.

Every effort is being made to make this affair a great success.

AUSTRIAN LECTURED AND SENT TO JAIL

Wasyi Sitarski, Blooming Glen, Severely Reprimanded by Judge

WOULD DEPORT HIM

"If the Court had its way you would go back to the country from which you came, so fast you only would have time to pack your clothes," said Judge Calvin S. Boyer, when he imposed sentence on Wasyi Sitarski, of Blooming Glen, who pleaded guilty to possessing intoxicating liquor for beverage purpose. He was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $300 and serve not less than three months nor more than two years in prison, by the Court, at Doylestown, yesterday.

The defendant, an Austrian, had made his appearance in the County Court of Common Pleas, here, three times previously, each of which were liquor violations. Twice before Sitarski had been convicted, according to court records.

The defendant told the Court he was born in Austria, but came to America about 27 years ago. He has been a resident of Bucks County for six years.
"You came from another country to enjoy the benefits of this country and yet you persisted in breaking the laws of this country, not only once, but this makes the fourth offense."

"It is because of your attitude toward the law that the Court will impose sentence on you," said Judge Boyer. Sitarski had been on probation on numerous times when he got into more liquor troubles.

A quantity of beer and wine was found on the defendant's property when State Police raided his premises.
The wine was hidden in a garage.
Emil Klemp, a boarder, who testified in behalf of the defendant, told the Court he owned the grape wine which was in the garage.

GARDENERS TO MEET

The Travel Club gardeners will meet at the home of Mrs. J. J. Willaman, Fairview Lane, Friday at three
p. m., where after a short business meeting and visit to Mrs. Willaman's iris garden in which there are many unusual and beautiful varieties, other local gardens will be visited.

Middy Honor Man

A distinguished career in Uncle Sam's Navy is predicted for Mid-shipman Fred Neupert (above), of Portland, Ore., who has been chosen as honor man with the highest ranking of the U. S. Naval Academy graduating class at Annapolis.
The President will attend commencement exercises.

COMEDY BY STUDENTS "MORE POWER TO YOU"

Dramatic Club Will Use Proceeds for Curtain Fund and Pins

ATTENDANCE RECORDS

A three-act comedy, "More Power To You," will be presented in Bristol high school assembly June 2nd, by the Dramatic Club. Proceeds gained from a small admission will be used for the curtain fund and pins for the club.
Cast includes: Helen Morganti, Vivian Greene, Mary Palowce, William Armstrong, Margaret Collier, Wayne Fry, Albert Goldman, Richard Hubbard, Doris Hendricks, Walter Fagan.

To school pupils will the latest type of Pullman cars be exhibited free of charge at the P. R. R. station, Thursday, June 1. The cars will leave Jersey City, N. J., and stop at every city of any size until arrival at Bristol. They will be on exhibition in this borough for two hours. The time people here may view the cars is from four to six
p. m.

There are a number of students at Bristol high school who have perfect attendance records for several years.
Joseph Stackhouse has not missed a day in ten years, nor Agnes Markel in nine. Doris Clifton has a perfect record for seven years, and Francis Huf-neel and Yolanda DiRenzo for six years. Margaret Quinn's record has been perfect for the past five years, as has also Sylvia Howell's and John Rit-ter's.

A sport dance is to be sponsored by the Juniors of Bristol high in the high school auditorium, Friday evening. An orchestra will supply music. Committee in charge is composed of: Laura Cameron, chairman; Vivian Greene, Doris Hendricks, Sara McGerr, Albert Goldman, Anthony Embassy, Richard Winslow, Howard Lovett.

District Attorney Will Speak Before Co. Council

DOYLESTOWN, May 25.—Bucks County Council of Republican Women will meet at the Doylestown Country Club Friday afternoon, June 2nd, at 2.30 o'clock, when an address will be given by district attorney, Arthur M.
Eastburn, on "The County Prison and County Almshouse." This will be the third address in a series of talks on "Bucks County Studies Itself."

Lester D. Thorne, of the Bristol Trust Company, will speak on "Banking and Banking Laws."

Great interest is being taken in these meetings where subjects of importance and interest to all Bucks Countians are being discussed. All interested are invited to attend the series.

TAKES COMMAND TODAY

FORMER RESIDENT HERE FINED $200 AND COSTS OF CASE

Raymond Austin is Found Guilty of Possession of Liquor

ALSO MANUFACTURED IT

A 500-Gallon Still Was Found in Operation On the Place

Raymond Austin, 20, of Seaside Park, N. J., formerly of Bristol, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of $200 after he pleaded guilty to the possession and manufacture of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes in court at Doylestown yesterday. The youthful defendant, a married man, was convicted on a liquor charge several years ago.

Taking the stand for the commonwealth, Corporal W. Paul Snyder of the State Police, told the Court he arrested the defendant April 5, when he raided a large colonial farm house near Stoopville. A 500 gallon still was in operation. Authorities confiscated large quantities of coal and other materials. Four large vats, with a capacity of 8,000 gallons apiece, were destroyed by the State Police.

Dr. Joseph W. E. Harrison, county chemist, testified the liquor contained 9.4 per cent alcohol by volume.

A pun was coined in court on Tuesday afternoon when Stephen Kulscar, of Springfield, charged with malicious mischief, told the Court and jury how he threw the carcass of a dead chicken into a spring and made "spring chickens."

Alex Legat, a neighbor of the defendant, who lives on an adjoining farm and the first witness to take the stand, told the Court that Kulscar insisted on throwing dead chickens into his spring.

According to the witness, the spring was the only source of water supply on the farm and he had found four chickens floating in the spring at various times.

The defendant, a mere youth, admitted throwing the dead chickens into a ditch but not in the spring. Tales of disputes between the neighbors were brought to light during the trial.

Wallace Glassmyer, of Shippensburg, formerly of Perkasie, charged with failure to support a child, was acquitted by a jury following his trial before Judge Calvin S. Boyer. The defendant was directed to pay the costs of prosecution.

Margaret Taves, mother of the child, testified the child was born, August 4, 1931.

The defendant, Glassmyer, left Perkasie a year ago to take a position as a foreman in a Shippensburg clothing factory. He denied being the parent of the child.

Before Judge Calvin S. Boyer, Joseph Daley, 21, of 5323 Master street, Philadelphia, pleaded guilty to a charge of transportation and possession of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes.

Trooper John Wommer, of Morrisville, arrested Daley on the Lincoln Highway in possession of a truck load of beer, on Feb. 2nd.

Daley testified he drove the beer truck for about six weeks for $6 a trip from Philadelphia to Trenton and return. The defendant drove an empty truck to Trenton, where he left it in a garage for a time and drove it back to Philadelphia loaded.

NEW YORK LEADS WAY

New York in taking steps to curb the alimony racket has set an example which needs to be followed by other states whose laws relating to this subject instead of seeing that justice is done in divorce actions in reality legalize graft.

Three bills changing the alimony laws of New York state have been signed by Governor Lehman. One gives to the court authority to modify alimony and contempt orders where the party in failing to make payments is financially unable to do so. Another permits the granting of a preference in an action for a separation as well as in a divorce case where an order granting temporary alimony has been made. Under the third, the court is allowed to use its discretion in refusing an application to punish a husband for failure to make alimony payments if it is convinced he has no means with which to pay.

Sending a man to jail because he can not make alimony payments is an injustice that can not be defended. Yet this has been the practice in New York and still is the practice in other states. No one is helped. The former wife is not benefited, for as long as the man is in prison he has no way of earning money with which to make the payments. Society is not helped. It has to support the man while he is in jail.

The court probably thinks it has maintained its dignity by sending to jail a man unable to pay a debt it had ordered him to pay, but this is a questionable conclusion.

TELLING IT TO CONGRESS

Another movement within Congress to eliminate the mileage graft practiced by that body has been launched, this time by Representative Cannon of Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin member proposes that the present traveling expenses of 15 cents a mile allowed congressmen be reduced to five cents. The latter figure, he said, would be half a cent a mile more than the actual amount, as shown by investigation, required in traveling to and from sessions. He pointed out that in the 72nd session the California delegation received $47,000 for traveling expenses, which was more than $41,000 in excess of the actual cost.

Representative Cannon then told the house a truth that ought to have taken some of the self-conceit out of the members.

"It is such practices as this," he said, "coupled with the daily clownish antics for which both houses are noted, that bring the Congress of the United States into such universal disrepute and disrespect with the American people."

That this reprimand was merited can not be disputed by anyone who follows congressional practices and proceedings. There is little hope, though, that it will succeed either in eliminating the traveling-expense graft or "clownish antics."

Some relatives love one another and others are heirs to the same estate.

What this country needs most is fewer persons complaining about what it needs.

Charity begins at home. So does the absence of it.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those poor, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, a amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives a secluded life with her two old maiden aunts in a rundown house. Aunt Evvie reveals to her how her mother had won her father away from Aunt Babe but Joan refuses to believe anything but good of her mother. She falls in love with Bill Martin, a garage worker, who comes once a week to care for Aunt Evvie's car. Meanwhile, the aunts plan to send Joan away to school.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER 6

They were both so young and inexperienced. Even tall Bill who lounged around the docks, and liked a fight now and then.

He didn't intend to do odd jobs all his life. He told her about his dreams, shyly at first, more confidently and fluently later.

"You see, I had to be out of school so much. Dad died when I was a little shaver. I had to work some, so I always seemed kind of overgrown when I got back to school. Didn't fit in with the rest, somehow. So I was glad when I got through. You might not think it's much to work in a garage."

"Oh I do. I do."

"Well, your aunts wouldn't," he amended reasonably. "But I'm learning the business. After I learn it."

She drew a little nearer, her lovely sensitive face all aglow. "What then—what are you going to do then?"

He didn't know, and he hated himself for not knowing. "Oh—quit, I guess. I'm kind of no account, I guess."

"Oh no—no you aren't."

"You don't understand," he burst awkwardly. "You—oh well—you're different. We're so different. Poor Ma and I—and my sister and her husband live with us, and the three kids—"

"Oh, but we're poor too!" Joan's eyes were shining. She was glad she was poor, too, so that Bill wouldn't mind being poor alone. "You don't know how poor we are. Why our roof leaks terribly. The whole third story is awful in winter. Mrs. Reedy and I have to put wash basins and buckets and everything out to catch the rain, and the wall paper is all peeling off—"

He looked up at the big house, with its yellow towers reaching at fluently skyward, and shook his head. "That's not the same. It's a different kind of poor we are. You don't know."

"Yes, I do. I know where you live. In the little white house down in the hollow."

"Near the fishery," he finished defiantly. "And the old salmon."

"I don't care. I'd as soon live there as our house."

"Johnnie—you wouldn't!"

It was the first time he had called her that. Her very finger tips were tingling. "Yes, I would!"

And then the gate creaked, there was a scuffling along the gravel walk—Aunt Evvie and Aunt Babe coming home. There was barely time for Joan to scamper up the back stairs before Evvie's latchkey turned in the front door. It was always that way. Somebody was always interrupting them.

Once he held her hands tight. "Suppose I won't let you go?" he teased.

She smiled back at him, but her clear dark eyes were serious. "Sometimes I wish you wouldn't," she said.

She was always saying things like that, things that thrilled and scared him. She wasn't like other girls. There was no country in her. She who had no love but Bill's, couldn't be niggardly with hers. She wanted him to know she loved him.

There was no doubt about it in her mind now. There would never be anyone but Bill. Bill was hope, and love and life, everything she had dreamed of, everything she needed to live for.

In his saner moments, counting out the money for the butcher bill, or putting up a new clothes line for his mother, he knew that it was all wrong.

"Gosh, I must have been crazy. A Van Fleet—and me. Ye gods! She's just a fool kind—stringing me along I guess. I guess she wouldn't ever care for a fellow like me."

And then he couldn't rest until he had seen her again. "Just this once," he would think. "I'll see her this once, and I'll kind of let her know that it's no good, and we'd better cut it out before her aunts find out and have a fit."

He tried to tell her late one afternoon when they walked up the hill road above the sea. There was a sheltered place where some stunted bushes, just off the road. They sat there in the sunshine, with the glittering bay spread out before them, and watched the fat white ferryboat churning into the slip.

"I suppose I'll be clearing out of here before very long—going over to the city," he said guardedly.

She nodded. "I suppose so."

"No opportunities much here—"

"No."

A feeling of utter desolation swept over him. "You don't care!" he cried sharply.

"Oh—but I didn't think—I didn't think you meant—that you wouldn't come back—"

"No opportunities much here—"

"No."

He saw her in a sort of golden mist, the sun was so bright, and his eyes, somehow were blurred. No use pretending he didn't love her—he did—more than anything in the world, more than he had thought he could ever love anyone. And he was going to give her up, because she was a Van Fleet, and he was just no account.

He turned his head away, murmured something about "Best thing that could happen for you—"

Swiftly her arms twined round him. She was clinging to him with all her strength. "No—no—"

"It wouldn't be. And besides, I won't give you up—ever!" Her lips, incredibly soft and red, met his. "I won't give you up—ever!"

With Joan's kisses sweet on his lips, and her honest eyes, clear and green as the sea, promising, Bill made one last lame effort.

"Gee—it would be years before I could—marry anybody. I'd have to clear out for a while first and get a job. I haven't even got the price of a brass ring!"

She kissed him again. "I wouldn't care!"

Slowly they got to their feet. The sun was setting. "I'll have to hurry!" she said. The looked at each other and laughed delightedly. They were hardly saying, they were walking so slowly, but the Van Fleet hedge seemed running to meet them—they were there so soon.

"Good-bye—dear!"

"Good-bye!" The word was a caress.

Joan floated into the kitchen. She was walking on air. Mrs. Heeley was mashing potatoes, and her head was tied up in a red plaid shawl. A sign that her temper and neuralgia were at their worst, but Joan was blind to bad signs.

She began to cut bread in a beatific daze.

"I said," Heeley was shouting now. Joan had to hear her. "I said your Aunt Evvie was waitin' in the library to see you. She got a letter about you today, and if I was you, I wouldn't keep her waiting."

"Did you want me, Aunt Evvie?" Joan was still walking on air. Not even the thought of Aunt Evvie's possible displeasure could penetrate the warm dream in which she moved.

"Bill loves me—Bill loves me—" It was a kind of litany repeating itself in her heart.

But Aunt Evvie wasn't displeased. Now that she was going to be rid of Joan once and forever, she felt a glow of something almost like affection for her. "After all, she's been a good girl, considering how pretty she is. It might have been worse," she thought. And aloud she said, "Yes—I just heard from Cousin Belle. She's sent the money for you to go to Philadelphia."

"Philadelphia! Way back East—why Aunt Evvie!"

Joan couldn't believe it. Saussalito, with occasional visits to San Rafael, and still rarer trips to San Francisco—had been her world. To think of going to Philadelphia!

"Boarding school," Aunt Evvie continued. "Cousin Belle conducts a very fine school for young ladies. You'll be expected to help any way you can—"

Boarding school! Magic words. All the stories of fudge parties, midnight suppers, and boarding school adventures passed in quick succession through Joan's throbbing head. To be able to spend the waiting time—the time when Bill would be away—that way. An engaged girl in a boarding school. Getting letters. Maybe Bill would go East too. He said he'd have to go some place—he couldn't stay in Saussalito. Maybe he'd be nearer—and they could see each other often—

"Oh, Aunt Evvie!" she cried—Evvie said, not unkindly. She disengaged Joan's loving hands and straightened her stiff white shirt-waist automatically. It occurred to her for the first time that it would be very quiet in the old house without the girl. Too quiet. Heeley was a half-wit, and Babe was a simpleton. Joan at least had been worthy of battle.

"She can't go East in that outfit!" Babe put in sharply. "She's got to have clothes. You're so smart thinking of everything, Evelyn Van Fleet—I suppose you didn't think of that? I knew it would cost more than just carfare, and here're you going to get the money?"

"Oh, this is all right—I'll press it." Joan who was already climbing down a fire-escape in Cousin Belle's School for Young Ladies, meeting Bill—a miraculously tailored and glittering Bill, with love in his eyes, and money in his pockets, couldn't be bothered with details. Just let her get there. Everything would come out right.

"I'm going to take her over to the city tomorrow, and get her some things," Evvie said grandly. "Belle won't fifty dollars over the price of the ticket. Ten dollars will be oceans for meals on the train—that leave forty for clothes."

Forty dollars for clothes. Forty dollars! It would buy everything—everything she'd ever wanted. And only fifty dollars over the price of the ticket. Ten dollars will be oceans for meals on the train—that leave forty for clothes."

That was before Bill came. All the good fortune was mixed up with Bill. The prince came, and directly the fairy godmother waved her wand and sent railroad tickets, and new dresses.

It was too wonderful. Too much to happen in one day. Blindly groping for her handkerchief, with a little choked cry she fled to the friendly quilt of her room.

DESIGNERS AT PARIS AID MILADY TO SAVE MONEY AND BE SMART

By Alice Langelier
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

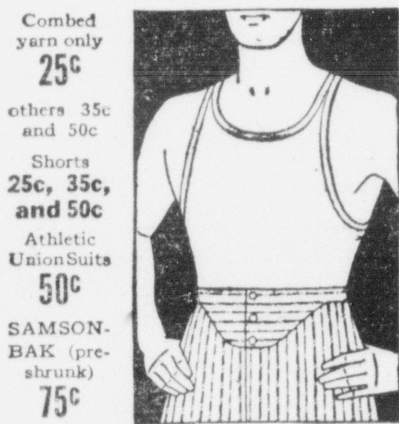

PARIS.—All-day-round ensembles are helping out the spring economy program for the women as well as revealing an elegant note in Paris. They're put on as soon as the sun comes out in the morning and will carry one way round the clock to a simple dinner party. A chic coat over a printed crepe de Chine or crepe frock is one solution of this economy ensemble. Coats may be slack, but at the present moment they are disguising the fact that printed frocks lurk beneath. This is most noticeable in the cool summer morning coat, with easy-fitting, slim, wrap-over line, a single clip at the waist and little capelet sleeves.

Wildflower patterned China with tiny multi-colored blossoms on a black ground look important under light wool coats. Long coats of light-weight woollens are shown with simple frocks of crepe or contrasting ones of wool. The coats may be straight and barely meeting in front or slightly fitted at the normal waistline and drawn across the figure.

Then there is the slim black apron-coat dress which looks like a skirt with a straight opening down the center-front worn over a red and white checked frock. Hood cape-sleeved semi-fitted coats with flaring front openings are also very effective over red and white checked fabrics. Over light-weight silk suits come coats of three-quarter or full length, the most comfortable being of swaggy cut, collarless and with raglan sleeves.

"CAN that woman of mine pick undershirts—and how! HANES Undershirts. It makes no difference how much they're washed—they always fit like the well-known paper on the wall. But don't get the idea I'm cramped. I can move any way I want. And let me tell you—HANES never cheats on the length. When I get my shirt tucked in—it stays. No bunching around the waist for me! Yes, sir—my wife gives me fits, if you know what I mean!"

Don't be afraid to wash the Lightweight Champion

HANES-knit Union Suits are made to chest and trunk measure. You can wash them in safety—they'll always fit. Cool, comfortable, no pinching at the crotch.

Shoulder-button Athletic style . . . 50c and 75c. Also with short sleeves in ankle, knee, or three-quarter legs . . . 75c to $1

Says Her Husband Lost 16 Pounds In 4 Weeks

"I have never found a medicine that 'peps' you up like Kruschen Salts and better still, leaves you 'pepped up.' I take it two or three times a week—not to reduce but merely to feel good and clean. My husband took it to reduce, he lost 16 pounds in 4 weeks." Mrs. E. A. Ferris, Washington, D. C. (December 29, 1932).

To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any drugstore in the world but be sure and get Kruschen Salts the SAFE way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatisfied after the first jar. (—Adv.)

By HARRISON CARROLL.

Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc. HOLLYWOOD. . . . . It's an amusing story Mary Boland tells about her colored maid.

Some time back, Miss Boland was summoned to the Coast. Her maid, at the time, had never been out of New York, and was dubious about traveling. She finally consented, however, and boarded a canal-boat with her mistress.

Mary Boland

Rough weather was encountered and the maid was sick a good part of the voyage. Then, arriving in Los Angeles, Miss Boland found a wire summoning her back to New York. She grabbed the first airplane, but was forced down halfway. There was nothing for it but to take a fast train.

It was 12 hours later when a still-dazed maid timidly approached her mistress. "Miss Boland," she quavered, "could you please tell me where we been?"

Disappointment is in store for the two-gun amazon from Texas and the Kansas husband killer who wrote to Fox, seeking to play the lead in "The Worst Woman in Paris."

Myrna Loy gets the role. This decision ends a search, which not only inspired a large number of freak letters, but which involved negotiations at one time or another, with many of Hollywood's most famous stars. In addition to Myrna, Ina Claire, Claudette Colbert and Tallulah Bankhead were mentioned for the role.

Now that Fox has made its choice, Monta Bell can start preparations to direct his own story. Briefly, it's the adventure of the "Worst Woman in Paris" who becomes the best woman in Kansas.

Sam Behrman and Sonya Levien are getting the treatment ready for the screen.

HOLLYWOOD PARADE:

The eternally impatient Charles Bickford is offering to turn over his garage and service station (opposite the M. G. M. studio) to anyone who will undertake the operation. The red-headed actor says he'd rather let it go free than worry about finding a purchaser of his interests.

The big basket of fruits, cigars, etc., that was delivered to Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., at the train was from Joan Crawford. And later, while Doug listened to the clicking rails, Joan went dancing at the Beverly Wilshire with Bob Abbot, a good-looking young man from Biogen.

Good for a laugh is Mae West's reply to the New Jersey skipper who wrote asking permission to name a tug-boat after the blonde star. "Sure," flipped Mae. "I'm nautical. . . . On every side, they'll tell you that La Garbo comes back from Sweden with a greatly improved English vocabulary. . . . Maurice Chevalier threw a big party on the farewell night of the Xavier Cugat Tango Orchestra at the Coconut Grove. . . . And have you heard Ted Fiorito's record of "Sweet-heart Darling," Herb Stothart's melody from Marion Davies' new picture "Peg o' My Heart"? . . . Estelle Taylor has just made another recording, too.

DID YOU KNOW—That John Miljan, broke and stranded, once worked for four weeks in the wine-cellar of the Brown Palace Hotel, Denver?

THREE 10-MILE RACES AT LANGHORNE SPEEDWAY

Promoter Dick Dunn has decided, after consulting with Joe Dawson, supervisor of auto-racing for the A. A. A. in this section, to have three 10-mile races, with the feature at forty miles at the popular Langhorne Speedway on Memorial Day afternoon.

The qualifying trials will be held in the morning and the twenty-eight cars turning in the best time will be eligible to compete in the feature race of the day, the event in which the big money prizes are at stake, also points in the first of the series of Eastern States' Point Championships just inaugurated in this section.

Attention is called to the fact that Promoter Dunn is varying his programs at Langhorne—just as a good baseball pitcher mixes up the assortment of deliveries he makes to the batter. At the recent inaugural, which went off with such signal success, despite adverse weather conditions, there were three seven-mile sprints, a fourteen-mile consolation, and a thirty-five mile.

However, due to threatening weather in the morning when the time-trials were scheduled, it wasn't possible to hold them until the afternoon after the sun had come out and it was decided to hold the meet because of the great crowd that had gathered and the good condition of the track. These qualifications took up time that should have been devoted to the regular races, with the result that it was decided to chop the consolation from fourteen to seven miles—the distance of the previous races. This reduced the number of miles from seventy to sixty-three, but the fans were pleased because they had been given the chance seldom presented them of seeing the time-trials.

Miss Genevieve Dalbow, Marcus Hook, spent a day last week in town visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith, Croydon, moved to 319 Dorrance street, Saturday.

SPORT SHOTS by Maxwell Gordon

THE Devon Horse Show opened yesterday in the picturesque grounds at Devon and will run for six days with a class for every horse . . . this is the major-domo of all horse shows and attracts people from everywhere.

There will be classes for saddle and carriage horses, for ponies, for hunting and jumping horses and ponies, for children's riding and jumping ponies, Shetlands, work horses, etc. Even "the brewer's big horses" have a chance and there are at least two entries of six-horse hitched drawing brewery trucks, one from a Philadelphia brewer and the other from St. Louis.

The winner of the $750 saddle horse class will be declared the champion saddle horse of the show. There are also $750 stake classes for three-gaited and five-gaited horses, each to be champion of its type in the show. There is a $500 harness horse stake, with championship ribbon. Championship also goes to the winner of the $2,000 harness pony stake.

The classes for hunters and jumpers will furnish thrills, and perhaps spills. The Charles T. Fisher Trophy goes to the winner of the $1,000 hunter sweepstake class, and the Edward F. Beale Challenge Trophy to the champion hunter of the show. The Hunt Team Class, for the Glen Riddle Challenge Cup, is to be ridden in hunt club colors. . . . The Country Fair will dispense entertainment and refreshment of various kinds, and will have many novel features.

COMMUNICATED

507 Radcliffe Street, Bristol, Pennsylvania,
May 24, 1933.

Editor,
Sir:

I was very much interested in Mrs. Lehman's communication of last week in regard to cleaning up Bristol. We hear a great deal about civic pride. We are urged to keep our homes and yards clean and to make them as beautiful as we can. This our townspeople are doing very well. From the smallest to the largest homes you will find attractive gardens and lawns showing thought and care. We are urged to make Bristol beautiful as other towns are also doing this year. There are indeed many opportunities along this line. The approaches to Bristol are far from attractive and inviting, and within our borough limits much can be done to beautify unsightly spots.

While funds may be scarce with which to buy trees and shrubs to make Bristol beautiful, nevertheless Bristol can be made a much nicer town in which to live if every person, young or old, will do his best to keep Bristol clean. Only thoughtfulness and a real spirit of civic pride is necessary to clean up our town.

Thus, one general group of places needing care is the vacant houses and adjoining yards, and the vacant lots. Very rarely does the owner of such places cause the refuse and junk to be put there. He himself does not dump his old automobile there, nor does he empty his waste paper baskets there, with the result that the papers blow on to other properties. This is the work of careless, inconsiderate people who have not thought of the effect of their actions upon their neighborhood. We have town collection of refuse and rubbish, for which we pay by our taxes. If each of us made use of this privilege, our town would be a much cleaner place.

Another way in which we are all to some degree guilty of cluttering up our town is by dropping papers in the streets. All kinds of papers, from candy wrappers and lolly-pop sticks to large advertising sheets are found daily all over the streets of Bristol. Let us stop throwing papers in the street, and teach the children to do likewise. Let us clean up Bristol first, so that we may beautify it later.

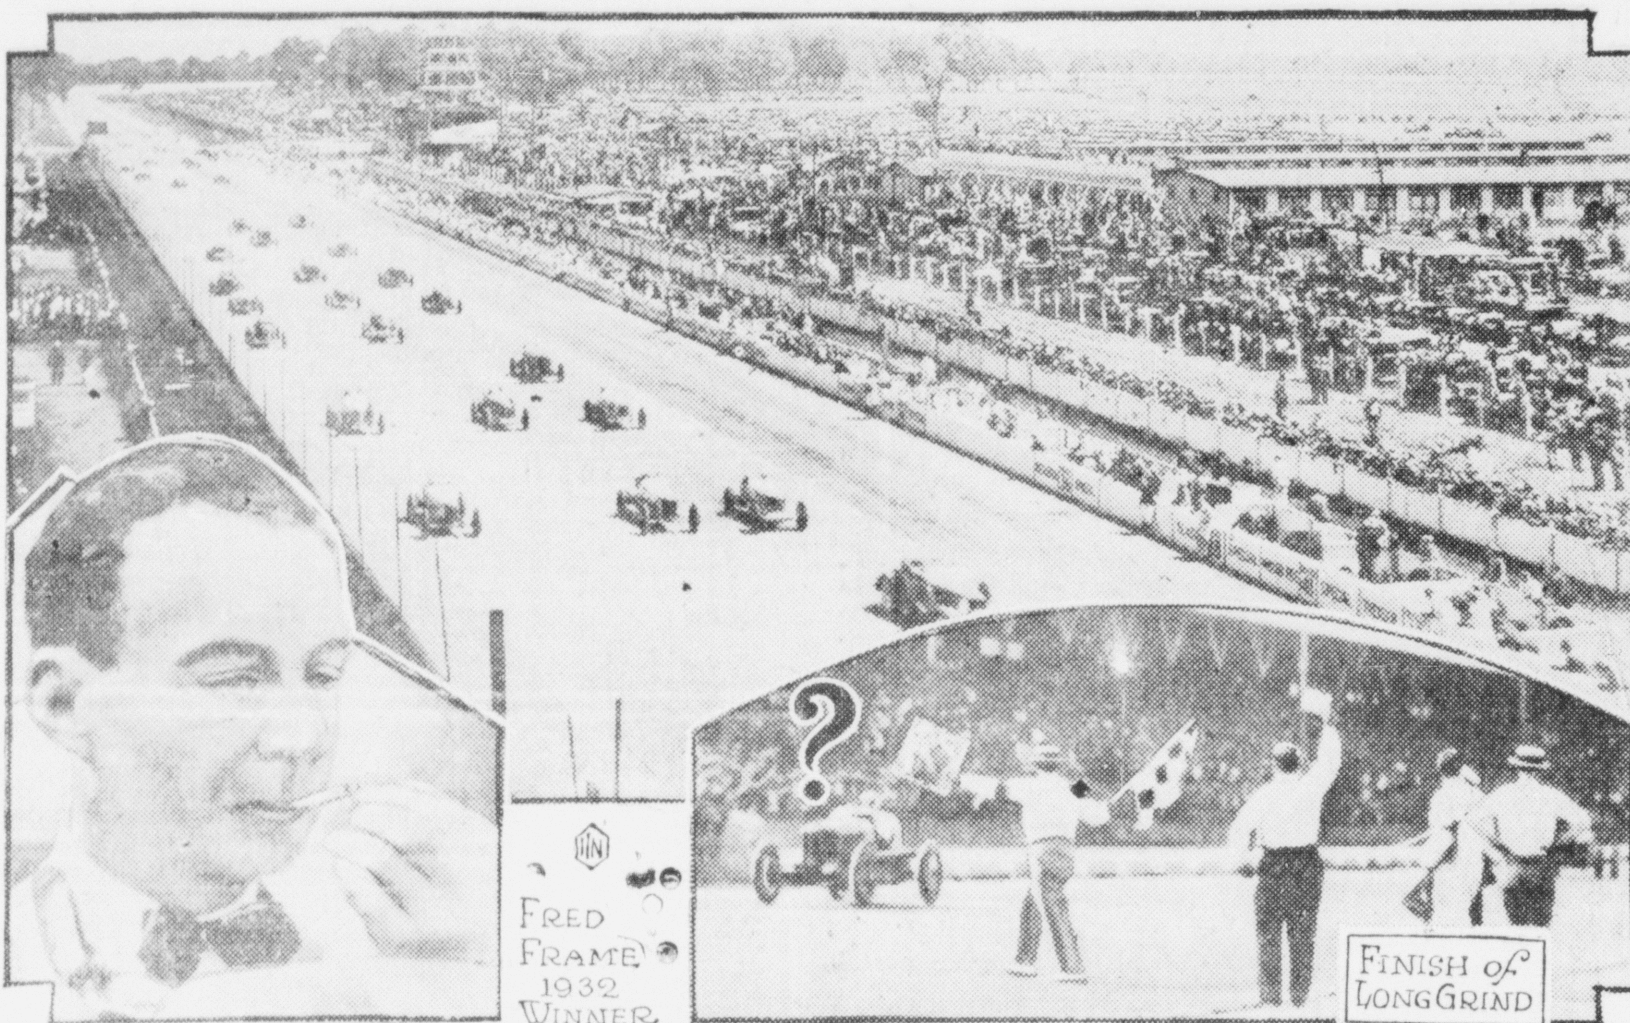

Very truly yours,
HELEN T. FORSTER.

Friends may call Friday evening.

Speed Kings Ready for Title Race

Forty of the greatest drivers of the country are entered in the annual Memorial Day 500-mile auto classic at Indianapolis Speedway. Thrills aplenty wait the 100,000 spectators expected to attend the world's greatest auto race. Four previous winners, including Fred Frame of Los Angeles, who won last year with an average speed of 104 miles per hour, a new record, will vie for new honors.

Ready for a Big Year

By BURNLEY

--THE TALL DYNAMITER OF THE U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM!

THE long, gaunt figure of Ellsworth Vines is back in the tennis spotlight as the ace of the U. S. Davis Cup forces, and Vines is ready to make his supreme effort to bring the Davis Cup back to America this July.

In a few days Vines will sail for England to play in the Wimbledon tourney. After that will come the Davis Cup Inter-zone finals and the challenge round against France, which is the tall Californian's big objective this year.

Just as in days of yore it was Big Bill Tilden who had to shoulder America's Davis Cup burden almost alone, so now Pasadena successor must bear the brunt of the battle in the attempt to regain the long-sought trophy from France's tennis musketeers.

At Paris Vines will play to the two singles matches and perhaps in the doubles as well, and if the beetle-browed blazer is scoring 'em over the net in the best Vines manner, he may succeed in bringing back the famous old Davis mug almost single-handed.

has been playing this spring augurs well for Uncle Sam's Davis Cup hopes, although of course it is too early to make optimistic forecasts. Competing in several tourneys on the Pacific Coast last month, the hollow-cheeked thunderer amazed the fans with his terrific service—the most spectacular since McLaughlin's flaming service.

All who have seen him play this spring seem to think that Vines is ready for the most brilliant season of his meteoric net career. However, there are some critics who, disregarding these cheering reports, hold that the strain of the long Australian tour which Vines embarked on last winter hurt his game this year.

With all deference to these experts, I believe they are mistaken on this point, since the tall pine of Pasadena has repeatedly shown that he possesses an amazing supply of stamina in his raw-boned frame; and the two months' rest which he enjoyed after completing the Australian invasion should have given him enough time to recuperate from the strain of almost ten months of continuous competition. As to Vines' chances against Co-chet in the Cup finals this year, some well-qualified experts, such as Bill Tilden and Vincent Richards, are inclined to favor the Frenchman in spite of the two beatings he received from the Californian last year. They seem to think that the masterful Henri was at least "30" off his game at Forest Hills last summer, and that he will be determined to avenge that humiliating rout when he meets Vines on the slower French courts in July.

In talking to Vines one gets the impression that he is particularly anxious to beat Jean Borotra in the Cup finals this year. The lanky Ellsworth hasn't forgotten the disastrous upset he suffered at the hands of the veteran Basque in the 1932 matches, and although Jean has repeatedly announced that he is through with singles competition, Vines is confident that the bounding Frenchman will be drafted for the singles again this season.

The crafty Borotra had better watch his step when he gets in there with Vines next time, for the long, lean dynamiter from Pasadena will be out to blast Jean right off the court!

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users. We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer — it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.
